Panama Silver, Asian Gold: Migration, Money, and the Making of Modern Caribbean Literature

The seminar will meet Tuesdays 12:50-3:50 in Turlington 4112

Instructor: Leah Rosenberg

Office: Turlington 4346

Email: rosenber@ufl.edu; phone: (352) 294-2848)

Office Hours: Wednesday 1-3; Thursday 11-12

To register: Send your name and UF ID to rosenber@ufl.edu

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Two overlooked labor migrations have profoundly affected the emergence of modern Caribbean literature: the immigration of indentured laborers from India and China into the West Indies and the emigration and return of the Afro-Caribbean workers who built the Panama Canal. Both groups worked under difficult conditions for exploitative wages. However, both used their savings to bankroll their entry into the educated middle class, thereby fostering the conditions that produced the first generation of nationalist politicians, as well as the first generation of Caribbean writers to achieve international acclaim. In this course, students will learn how to use archival material related to these nineteenth- and twentieth-century migrations, including photos, court cases, newspaper reports, popular songs, and first person accounts of the migrants' experiences, to enrich their understanding of Caribbean literature.

This course is a PILOT course for inter-collegiate collaborative learning and instruction in digital humanities. It will be taught as a graduate seminar in collaboration with Professor Leah Rosenberg at The University of Florida, Gainesville, and as an undergraduate seminar with Dr. Donette Francis at the University of Miami, and we will be assisted by librarians and IT staff at each institution. The course makes extensive use of the Digital Library of the Caribbean (www.dloc.com), an open-access digital archive, whose technical hub is at UF. Students will have an opportunity to add their annotations to the finding aids in the dLOC collection. Some class discussions will be held via video conference, and some assignments will be researched collaboratively. We hope this initial experiment will sow the seed for future collaborative courses involving students at other institutions, in the United States and abroad. We are counting on the resources you help us develop to ground such future collaborations. Your level of commitment and participation will matter for students beyond this class. So be prepared to complete a significant amount of the work through independent research and cross-campus collaboration.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

To understand key concepts, themes, tropes, styles, and aesthetic concerns of Caribbean literary discourse through examining literary representations of the two migrations under study.

To analyze creative texts in relation to historical events, as well as other disciplinary modes of inquiry such as history, anthropology, sociology.

To develop and hone skills of literary analysis and research such as archival practice, close reading, critical argumentation, critical synthesis, and thesis writing.

To illuminate some of the limitations of the colonial archive records of subaltern and disenfranchised people and the stakes involved in articulating the history of the majority of Caribbean people—for literary writers and scholars.

To introduce students to the technology used in digital archiving (producing metadata, exhibit labels, finding guides) and digital humanities (e.g. Omeka, PBworks, timelines, Zotero) and explore challenges posed by digital archiving (how can we not reproduce the colonial structure of existing historical archival materials?). Students are encouraged to produce and publish digital research projects (such as finding guides, curated exhibits, times lines) that will be included in the Digital Library of the Caribbean (www.dloc.com) and when appropriate the conference and exhibits celebrating the Centennial of the completion of the Panama Canal to be held at UF in spring 2014.

REQUIREMENTS:

Attendance and Participation (in class discussion and responses to wiki postings beyond the required contributions)	20%
Weekly Reading and Writing Assignments #1-6	40%
Assignment #7 Meta Data Assignment	10%
Assignment # 8 Final Research Project	30%

Attendance and active participation are mandatory. Twenty percent (20%) of your grade will be based on your active listening, your reading, your engagement in class discussions, and your attendance of office hours.

Wiki Contributions. Students are encouraged to contribute useful information and questions to the Wiki. You are required as a minimum to A) fill out the student profile with contact information and contributing to the “discussion” in the following way: A) For weeks when we have shared readings, supply 1-2 two questions with a brief explanation of the question (1-3 sentences and the location of a relevant passage(s)) by Monday at 5:00 pm the day before class, and C) write a summary of main points of discussion for two weeks of class. If you find useful information about historical or cultural references in the texts we read, please consider posting that information in the discussion for that week.

Readings: Assigned readings are listed in the syllabus for each week. On most days there will be a literary text as well as an article or two meant to help you with your assignment. Readings are available on E-RESERVES and dLOC. Underlined titles indicate that there is a link to dLOC directly from the syllabus. Please bring a copy of each reading to class with you.

Exercises and Assignments: During the first half of the course, you will complete weekly assignments, parts of which you will share online with other students at the three campuses. In the second half of the course you will complete a metadata project and a final research project.

First drafts or efforts towards Assignments 1-6 are due in class and final drafts are due by 9:00pm on the Friday of the week in which they are assigned. Assignment 7 is due on November 12, and Assignment 8 (final project) is due on December 13.

Class Attendance and Punctuality: I expect you to come to class on time, and to attend regularly. Failure to do either will affect your final grade.

Class Participation: This class is a seminar. I expect you to come to class having read the assigned materials and having prepared for in-class discussion. “Class participation” means participating in discussion generated by the class leader, as well as paying attention to and offering respectful critiques of in-class and online presentations by other students.

Office Hours. Please see me at least twice during the semester.

Guest Lecture: Joan Flores

ASSIGNMENT 8 Part 2: Proposal explaining the use of technology due Friday 6 December. Be able to give an update on your planning in class on the 3rd.

ASSIGNMENT 8 Building a Collaborative Digital Project

Final project due 13 December

EXPLANATION OF ASSIGNMENTS

The first draft or effort towards toward each assignment is due at 9 a.m. on the morning of the class. The final version should be uploaded to the wiki by noon the Friday of that week. Drafts should be posted on your home page and the final version on both your page and the wiki page for the assignment.

ASSIGNMENT 1: SEEING THE ARCHIVE IN THE TEXT [due 3/6 September]

This assignment helps you understand how and why scholars use archival sources.

- Choose a book of interest from LINK.
- Read and analyze its introduction and bibliography using the reading form.
- Post a paragraph about your findings to LINK.

ASSIGNMENT 2: READING THE COLONIAL ARCHIVE [Due 10/ 13September]

This assignment introduces you to how scholars negotiate the colonial archive in making meaning.

1. Focus on 1 witness' testimony from Verene Shepherd's Maharani's Misery.
How do you evaluate the significance of this testimony?
How do you use other testimonies to qualify (e.g., verify, contradict, etc.) this version?
2. What other conditions influence how we read these sources (e.g., additional historical contexts, the acknowledged absence of information, etc.)?
3. Document your reasoning and analysis (500 words) and post to the Wiki page for this assignment.
4. Using Hartman as your model, imagine your version of events (500 words) and post to the Wiki page for this assignment.

ASSIGNMENT 3: REPRESENTING WEST INDIANS IN THE PANAMA CANAL Zone [Due 24/27 September]

This assignment examines how literary texts transform the historical record.

1. Choose 1 scene from Susan Proudleigh that represents a specific historical event e.g., reasons for migrating to Panama, passage to Panama, encounters with Americans, living conditions, industrial accidents, etc.).
2. Choose 2 related historical sources.

3. How are the West Indian characters represented (e.g., body, race, color, class, gender, skills, profession, and an individual's reasons for migration, etc.)?
 - In the novel?
 - In the 2 historical sources?
 - For each, examine what the author includes and excludes.
4. What do these selections and interpretive choices tell you (500-750 words)?

Suggested sources listed in assignment page in PBworks

ASSIGNMENT 4: WORKING WITH NEWSPAPERS (Due 1 October)

This assignment allows you to think about how newspapers create historical meaning. You may focus on any aspect of Panama or Asian migration for this assignment.

- Browse the newspapers assigned for your campus.
- Select a news item related to the migrants.
- Read the entire issue of the newspaper in which the article appears.
- What kind of items does this newspaper carry (e.g. ads, editorials, letters, news, literary pieces, cartoons)?
- What can you tell about the newspaper's readership and political orientation?

Write (500-750 words) for the Wiki characterizing the newspaper, and post to the Wiki page for this assignment.

ASSIGNMENT 5: VISUALIZING THE ARCHIVES (Due 8/11 October)

This assignment asks you to examine how photography historically has constructed the raced subject.

- Choose 1 image from the photo gallery. LINK
- Examine the photo and consider the following:
- Note the gender of the subjects; their position vis-à-vis, machines, animals, vegetation, buildings or other racial subjects.
- What do you know about the photographer or what do you imagine he/she was like?
- Is the photograph dated?
- Is there a caption?
- What do these selections and interpretive choices tell you?

Write (500-750 words) on the provenance of the photograph and the way it constructs its subject. Paste the photo from the photo gallery into your Wiki entry.

ASSIGNMENT 6: LISTENING IN THE ARCHIVES.(Due 22/25 October)

This assignment introduces students to oral histories, memoirs, and personal accounts.

- Choose 1 oral account or memoir.
- Who is speaking?
- How do they characterize their relationship to the event they describe?
- What do these narrative choices tell you

Relate (500-750 words) your observations to some aspect of a text you've read so far in the course.

ASSIGNMENT 7: COLLABORATIVE GUIDES AND ANNOTATIONS (Due 12/15 November)

This assignment teaches you basic skills in digital archiving, and helps you understand how the digital archive constructs knowledge.

- Choose 1 primary source relevant to your final project from dLOC.
- Consider what's included and what's missing in the citation (the citation includes the record information or metadata).

For example:

See citations for any items by Herbert G. de Lisser, ethnically Jewish and was editor of The Gleaner for nearly 40 years, but there is nothing in the citation to make that known.

Letters from the Isthmian Canal Construction Workers, which does not exist in any known online library catalog and is only listed in the bibliography of Rhonda Frederick's Colón Man a Come.

In the source you selected, what additional information do you think should be included to make the source more useful for scholars?

Complete the form for your selected item, and post to the Wiki.

ASSIGNMENT 8: BUILDING A COLLABORATIVE DIGITAL PROJECT (part 1: due 26 November; part 2 due 3/6 December; final due 13 December)

This assignment demonstrates how Caribbean Literature engages the archives. This will be a Digital Humanities project (a project for the humanities in the digital age).

You may work individually or in a group.

For this assignment, you should create a digital project to explicate how Caribbean Literature engages the archives. This digital project should use dLOC, along with any other technologies as appropriate and dictated by the academic intent, to make a contribution to scholarly conversations.

For example, your response could be thematic, theoretical, and/or it can use any combination of sources, media, and technologies.

Your assignment should draw on any of the assignments created for this course. Please remember to cite all sources properly including your classmates.

Components:

Part 1: Write a proposal for your project (250 words) which includes: a title, tentative thesis, and list of sources. (Due November 26)

Part 2: Review and select an appropriate technology for delivering the project. Write a proposal explaining how the selected technology supports the project. (Due 6 December)

Part 3: Design and deliver a digital project. (Due 13 December)

Possible examples:

Diaries of a Prolific Professor

Journal created from class papers (example with Haitian Creole)
