Course Description and Objectives

This course is designed as an introductory survey of texts and discourses within the African American literary tradition. As we explore critical works within this tradition, from the earliest slavery to the Harlem Renaissance, we will frame our close textual readings and literary analyses within the context of critical movements and discourses in social, cultural, and literary history. We will be particularly engaged in examining the manner in which literary works and other forms of African American cultural production reveal and respond to social and cultural ideologies, especially those that impact constructions of difference and the formation of identity, subjectivity, and/or the notion of the self.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, you should be able to:

- ✚ Produce a literary close reading that addresses both the form and the content of one or more text(s) in the construction of an argument about the text's meaning.

- ✚ Become familiar with critical periods, discourses, and writers in the African American literary tradition and develop an understanding of the historical and cultural contexts that shape that tradition, specifically in the early national, reconstruction and early twentieth-century periods.
- ✚ Gain the confidence and ability to speak in a sophisticated and critical fashion about African American literature.
- ✚ Develop effective written communication skills.

Required Texts

- Norton Anthology of African American Literature 3rd Edition (only Volume 1)—edited by Henry L. Gates (2014)

Course Requirements and Grades Distribution

Critical Responses (3)—30%

- ✚ Students will write THREE 4-5 page (1000-1250 words) critical responses throughout the semester. These will require close-reading skills and argument analysis. I will create prompts based on your readings and in-class assignments. Critical Responses are due on Canvas by 11pm of the due date. Each day that the paper is late, I will subtract half a letter grade (5 points). No papers will be accepted a week after the due date. Please note that late papers for the final critical response will not be accepted.

Evaluations (2)—30%

- ✚ It will consist of identification, short answer, and essay questions. No worries, we will review beforehand. Make sure you take sufficient notes in class!

Quizzes and In-Class Assignments—30%

- ✚ Be prepared to take a short reading comprehension quiz most days that I assign readings (5 points per quiz). In-class assignments will often serve as a place of departure for our discussion and are usually in the form of handouts. You will work individually, with a partner, or with a group.

Attendance and Participation—10%

- ✚ It should go without saying that attendance and participation are mandatory for your success in this class. It is imperative that you are present and on time. You are allowed 3 absences. After the third absence, (that means absence number 4 and 5) I will subtract two points per absence from your final grade. If you have 6 or more absences, you will fail the course. Remember that quizzes CANNOT be made up, regardless of the circumstance. In-class assignments can be made up, but must be turned in a week after your absence—otherwise it's a zero. Make sure you get with a classmate to catch you up. If you are on time and have perfect attendance, you will be rewarded FIVE extra points on your final evaluation.
