Cultures of United States Imperialism

Course Description: This course takes its title from the well-known collection published in 1993 which transformed the field of American studies by making colonialism and imperialism central to the analysis of U.S. literary and cultural texts. We will examine different tropes of empire such as going native, colonial domesticity, imperial eyes, pornotropics, exhibiting empire, and remasculinization; at the same time, we will focus on the specific sites of empire such as the frontier, Hawai‘i, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, and Vietnam. The course will engage with different forms of imperialism such as North American settler colonialism, Pacific and continental expansionism, control of far-flung colonies, and empire without colonies. We will also examine some cultural expressions of resistance to empire. The purpose is to examine the different ways in which, at historically specific moments, literature, culture and empire are productively imbricated.

Panels: Three or four students should get together to work on a panel. These panels are either intended to broaden, contextualize, or interrogate the topic being discussed in class. Many panels require you to take a position on a topic. Taking a position does not simply mean presenting an unverifiable opinion. A position must be supported by close readings of the text in question. By all means, direct the class to a specific page and offer specific analyses. All panelists should e-mail a 1-2 page statement to each of the panel participants as well as to me at least 24 hours before class. Make sure you are not repeating other panelists. During class, the panelists should read aloud their statements. Then each panelist should ask one question to another member. After that, the panel will open to class discussion. Please do not pose questions to the class because this usually inhibits discussion. If I do not get your paper 24 hours before class, I will consider it late. In class, please hand me a hard copy of your panel statement. Please practice and time yourself before you present in class. Presentations and panels will be graded on the information provided, clarity, and on the ability to elicit questions.

Attendance: Please remember that this is a discussion class and that you are expected to attend every day. Attendance means bringing all reading material to class and being prepared to discuss the readings. If you come to class without the assigned readings you may be considered absent.

There is no way to simply "make up" work for missed classes. If you miss more than four hours of class, you will lose a third of a letter grade for each additional absence. The four-hour absence policy does not mean that I am encouraging these absences or that you should, indeed, miss four hours of class. The allowed absences are meant strictly to cover emergencies (if you "use up" your absences and then have an emergency, you're out of luck). Missing eight or more hours of class constitutes failing the course. If you are absent you are still responsible for knowing the material and turning in assignments, including responses.

Because this is an intensive discussion course the learning will take place by building upon our conversations. Class participation means contributing to the flow and interrogation of ideas or asking questions when you have difficulty. Attendance alone is not enough.

Quizzes: These will generally be given at the beginning of class although I might quiz you at the end of a class period on what was discussed during class. The quizzes are easy. If you’ve done the reading you’ll find it simple to get an “A.” I will not be able to do any makeups for quizzes but I will drop the lowest quiz grade.

Papers: I do not require any research for your papers other than the material in the packet. Please follow MLA guidelines for citation. Remember that any use of reference material, both in direct quote or paraphrase, must be meticulously footnoted. Plagiarism, while intentional or otherwise, will result in a failing grade. Make sure your paper has a thesis (ie something you need to prove), that there is only one thesis for the entire paper, and that your paper is not a plot summary. I will put a “Guidelines for Papers” handout on sakai as well as sample graded papers.

Turning in Papers: Your papers (including responses) are due in class on the days assigned. Before bringing a hard copy of your paper to class, please turn in the papers on sakai on or before the due date. Please don't slip papers under my door. Late papers will be reduced one letter grade for each class period; after one week they earn an "E."

Readings, cell phones and Laptop Use: Cell phones MUST be turned off at the beginning of class.
I would prefer it if you bought hard copies of texts because discussion is easier that way

Rewrites: You may revise any one paper. For rewriting, please follow the long comments at the end of the paper. Remember that a rewrite is a serious effort and not simply a correction of mechanical errors. When you rewrite a paper turn in the original graded paper along with the rewrite. In the new paper, highlight all the revisions you have made. If you want to rewrite a paper, I recommend your doing so within two weeks of getting the graded paper back. Do not rewrite a paper with a grade higher than a ‘B.’ All rewrites are due December 12.

All papers and the panel must be done in order to pass the course. Work not done will receive a grade of "0"

For purposes of calculation A=90, B+=83 etc

Announcements and Assignments will be on sakai. Please go to https://lss.at.ufl.edu/ and follow the student links. Please check your email daily.

You can expect things of me in return. I will be happy to answer any questions or help you with papers. If you are not free during my office hours and need help, please don't hesitate to see me after class to set up an appointment.
