“Let us remember…that in the end we go to poetry for one reason, so that we might more fully inhabit our lives and the world in which we live them, and that if we more fully inhabit these things, we might be less apt to destroy both.”

–Christian Wiman

Course Description, or What is Intermediate Poetry Writing?

CRW 2300’s course description reads, “Writing poetry may become an addiction. This workshop will continue with matter-of-fact techniques and some fancy ones as well. Students write poems and read some difficult and thrilling poetry of the past and present. By the end, students may be able to say, with Humpty Dumpty, I can explain all the poems that ever were invented—and a good many that haven't been invented just yet. Juniors or seniors who have not taken CRW 1101 or CRW 1301 must have strong composition skills.”

CRW 2300 is a poetry course that emphasizes reading, writing, and criticizing poetry. This seminar/workshop operates on the philosophy that you must become a skilled, critical reader of poetry in order to become a better writer of it. Our discussions will employ the types of vocabulary and considerations specific to poetry. These discussions should help you to articulate your impressions and criticisms, a facility you’ll need in the second half of the course, where, in addition to studying published poems, you’ll be workshopping the poems of your peers and writing original poetry yourself.

During the first part of the semester, students will read and discuss poetry while becoming familiar with literary devices and sensitive to the sounds and rhythms of poetry. Students will be expected to annotate the assigned poems and come to class prepared to discuss them. Developing these skills will be important for the second part of the course, where, in addition to reading assigned poems, students will submit their own poetry and workshop their peers’ poems.

This is a general education course providing student learning outcomes listed in the Undergraduate Catalog at https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/Pages/home.aspx

Assignments

Poems / Workshop
You will turn in eight poems that respond to the assigned prompts.

Workshop Procedure: Bring a hard copy of your poem to class to turn into me. If it is your week to be workshopped, bring 19 copies. Please read each poem carefully (at least two times), and mark up the copies with feedback. Prepare at least TWO POSITIVE and TWO CRITICAL comments for each poem, and be prepared to share them during workshop. Bring the copies to class on the day of workshop.

Requirements:
1. To receive credit, poems must:
   a. have 1” margins (and no double-spacing)
   b. be left-justified (not center- or right-, although indentation and other variations in form are allowed)
   c. be written in Times New Roman font, size 12
   d. have a title
   e. have your name and the assignment number at the top of the page.
2. Poems must respond to the assignment given. No end-rhyming unless the prompt says it’s OK.
3. Poems must be written in complete sentences (if you eliminated the line breaks, the text would read coherently and be grammatically correct). No fragments are allowed.
Receiving points for workshops:
Students are responsible for reading the poems to be workshopped, writing comments on them, and bringing printed copies to class. Furthermore, students should be a vocal, but respectful, participant in workshops. Be specific with your comments, written and verbal, since greater detail will help the poet in question. (Note: There will be eight workshops, and the lowest score will be dropped.)

Final Portfolio:
Near the end of the semester, you will revise at least six poems, taking into account my feedback and the feedback of your peers, as well as your own vigorous reexamination of each poem. The portfolio will be graded as a whole based on the quality of your revisions and the scope of your improvement throughout the semester.

Critique of Work:
For this assignment, you will reflect on your writing processes for the poems you’ve written throughout the semester, you will discuss your revision tactics, and you will examine your own growth as a poet. You will also look at your poems as a collected body of work and examine any themes or questions that arise from them being put into proximity. The Critique will accompany your Final Portfolio.

Recitations:
Students will choose a poem from the textbook to recite in front of the class [there will be two recitations, the second of which is worth points]. At the end of the course, students will recite a memorized poem. The memorized poem must be at least 14 lines in length. Note: you may not recite only the first 14 lines of a longer poem. The memorized poem must be a complete poem. Students will also write 250 words about their preparation to turn in the day of the memorized recitation.

Papers:
The goals of close readings are to get training in the active reading of poems in order to better recognize effective writing practices that you can use in your own poetry, to practice constructing an argument and supporting it with literary evidence, and to grapple with a poem’s ambiguities in order to arrive at a personal and unique (although not always uncomplicated) interpretation of the work.

Diagnostic Essay:
You will write a response paper to one of the assigned poems that will serve as a diagnostic essay. Your response will take the form of a close reading, analyzing the poem based on its formal, sonic, rhetorical, and figurative qualities. I will make comments on this paper for you to consider in future papers.

Language Analysis:
Choose a short poem from Straits & Narrows (less than 14 lines) and paraphrase it. You should address each line, image, allusion, and comparison (metaphor, simile, metonymy, synecdoche) in the passage. You should demonstrate that you understand the meaning of the words, lines, and sentences as they develop throughout the poem. Refrain from discussing your general impressions or feelings about the poem—discussion should be completely text-based (that is, using evidence from the text).

Sound Analysis:
Choose a poem from Straits & Narrows and discuss the sonic qualities (alliteration, assonance, consonance, rhyme, meter) of the poem. Your thesis should make a statement about how these elements are interacting in the poem. What effect is achieved? How does this effect relate to the piece as a whole? (i.e. what does it add? how does it contribute to any other aspects [such as subject matter] of the poem? Note: your discussion should also demonstrate that you understand the poem’s sense.

Structure Analysis:
Choose a poem from Straits & Narrows and describe the structure: line/stanza length, syntax, enjambment, spacing, layout, stanza breaks, etc. In your consideration of form, discuss how the structure develops, where these shifts come, and how. Keep in mind that you may have to discuss other devices (diction, images, or other poetic devices) that relate to the structure (and its development).

Final Essay:
Combine the previous three papers and write a comprehensive analysis on a single poem from one of the textbooks. Your thesis statement should make a specific point (argument) about the interaction of these elements in the piece. In addition to conveying the overall sense of the poem, your paper should demonstrate your understanding of all elements of the poem (sonic, formal/structural, rhetorical, and figurative qualities).

Straits & Narrows Critique:
Just as you will look at your own body of work and write a critique, you will write a critique of Straits & Narrows. You will look at the collection as a whole, discussing themes, the interaction between poems, and the arc of the collection. You might consider some of the following questions: What makes these poems cohere? What common approach do they share? Are there major differences among the poems? Are there certain subjects that recur or are in conflict with one another? In short, in your opinion, what makes this assemblage of poems a “collection”?

Course Policies and Procedures

Attendance and Tardiness
You are allowed two absences. A third absence will lower your grade by an entire letter. If you accumulate four absences, you will fail the course. Though some absences are excused if the student provides documentation for a university-sponsored event (athletics, theater, music, field trip, religious holidays), if you know you will be missing any “excused” days, you should use these as your two allotted absences.

I take roll at the beginning of class. If you enter class after roll has been called, you are late. Every two instances of tardiness will count as one absence. If you are more than 15 minutes late, you will be marked as absent for the day. Tardiness will also lower your participation grade.

PLEASE NOTE: If you are absent it is still your responsibility to make yourself aware of all due dates and to submit the next week’s assignments on time.

Classroom Etiquette

No phones or laptops in class. Keep all electronic (or other) distractions in your bag. If I notice you using a cell phone or laptop during class, I will mark you absent for the day without a warning.

Submission Requirements

Assignments must be submitted by the correct time on the day assigned and in the specified format. IMPORTANT: Submissions on the E-Learning site will close at 30 minutes before class to give students time to make it to class.

Mode of Submission: All papers and poems will be submitted as MS Word (.doc/.docx) or Rich Text Format (.rtf) documents to E-learning/Sakai. Final drafts should be polished and presented in a professional manner. All papers and poems must be in 12-point Times New Roman font. Poems should be single-spaced and include your name, the date, and the assignment number. Essays must be double-spaced with 1-inch margins. Please use correct MLA formatting and citation style for critical writing.

Extra Credit Opportunities

Students may earn extra credit by attending the MFA@FLA reading series—readings of original poetry and fiction by students in UF’s Creative Writing MFA program. These readings take place certain Thursdays at 8 p.m. at Volta Coffee downtown and last approximately 45 minutes. Each reading attended (with a short paragraph about the experience) is worth 5 points of extra credit.

Grade Appeals

In 1000- and 2000-level courses, students may appeal a final grade by filling out a form available from Carla Blount, Program Assistant. Grade appeals may result in a higher, unchanged, or lower final grade.

Statement of Composition (C) Credit and Humanities (H) Credit

Guidelines for University of Florida Writing Requirement

“To graduate, you must complete courses that involve substantial writing for a total of 24,000 words. […] The writing will be evaluated on content, organization and coherence, argument and support, style and mechanics. Evaluations will be on individual work and the evaluated work will be returned to you before the last day of class.”

“Writing course grades have two components. Professors will indicate whether or not you met the writing requirement and will assign a course grade. Therefore, to receive writing credit you must receive a minimum grade of C (2.0) and satisfactory completion of the writing component. It is possible not to meet the writing requirement and still earn a satisfactory grade, so you should review your degree audit after receiving your grade to verify receipt of credit for the writing component. All courses that require writing will not necessarily count toward the writing requirement. In writing requirement courses, students will be evaluated as described above.”

CRW 2300 requires a total of 6,000 words toward this requirement. The 6,000 words will come from these assignments: Response Papers [2,000 words], Critiques [1,750 words], Analysis Essays [2,250 words].
