Course Description

In this course we will focus on the kinds of documents found in the working lives of accountants: emails, memos, letters, proposals, and reports. Even apparently simple writing tasks reflect your professional ability, and becoming a competent and savvy technical writer is important for furthering your career. In addition to learning how to write effectively within a variety of business genres, you will also develop an awareness of how to write best for a particular audience.

You will also learn to examine writing rhetorically in order to compose texts that respond appropriately and ethically to complex professional situations. Throughout the semester, we will discuss methods of revising prose for clarity, beginning with an examination of what it means to write in “plain” English, as the SEC, AICPA, and other bodies increasingly emphasize.

Required Texts

Additional readings will be provided through Sakai and Course Reserves throughout the semester as needed. You are responsible for retrieving and bringing them to class. These include:

McIsaac & Sepe, “Improving the Writing of Accounting Students: A Cooperative Venture.” Journal of Accounting Education.

Shipley, David, and Will Schwalbe. Send: Why People Email so Badly and How to Do It Better.

Stout & Wise, “Ethics, Gen Y Style.” California CPA.

Course Assignments

Letters
The letters will address different audiences, contexts, and situations, and in composing them you will demonstrate revised and professionally-polished plain English. You will be given a prompt for each letter assignment. (2 total; 200 points)

E-mails and Memos
Like the letters, you will be given a prompt for each email and memo. A detailed prompt will specify the required length of each document. (3 total; 300 points)

Website Critique
You will complete an informal, internal report analyzing an accounting related website of your choice as if you are a member of that company/group. (100 points)

Group Report / Proposal
You will work in a group to write a formal report. Your group may select among a feasibility/recommendation report, investigative report with recommendations, or a sales proposal. You will compose this document for multiple professional audiences and it needs to be context specific. (150 points)

Group Presentation
Your group will give a 15 minute presentation. You will take on the role of a team of accountants working for a corporation. Your team will deliver an informational or persuasive report related to a specific issue in accounting. Your goal will be to either inform your audience on an important but little-understood topic, or identify a problem in company policy and propose a solution. (100 points)

Participation
Participation includes your in-class contributions during discussions, satisfactory completion of in-class assignments and activities, and appropriate conduct throughout the semester. Participation also includes any necessary preparations or drafts for workshop sessions in class. (150 points)

TOTAL: 1000 points

Course Policies

Attendance
This is a participation-oriented, skills-based writing course, which means that you will build your skills incrementally and systematically in each class throughout the semester. Much of the learning that takes place is spontaneous and difficult to reproduce outside of class.

Consequently, if you miss more than two classes during the semester, your grade will drop considerably. Each absence beyond two will lower your overall course score total by 5 points. If you miss more than four classes, you will fail the course. Exempt from this policy are only those absences involving university-sponsored events, such as athletics and band, and religious holidays, for which you must provide appropriate documentation in advance of the absence. Absences for illness or family emergencies will count toward your two allowed absences. I advise that you save your absences for when you are truly ill.

Email Correspondence
This is a business writing course, so I expect all emails to be professional. Please include proper salutations and a signature that includes your name. If you use email to submit an assignment, please include your last name and assignment title in the email subject line.
