COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course examines the role literature has played in individuals' lives and in society. It is centered on three questions: What is literature? Why do we write literature? And why do we read literature? LIT 2000 introduces students to a diverse range of literary genres, from different national traditions and historical periods.

Among the primary aims of this course is to help students develop critical skills of literary analysis and interpretation. Students will also learn how formal and stylistic elements as well as historical contexts shape the meaning and significance of literature. By becoming more skillful readers of literature and its contexts, students become better readers of the worlds that literature addresses, develop their ability to decipher meaning from language, and better understand their own relationship to science, technology, media, commerce, and politics. This course confers H credit.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

In addition to gaining a deeper appreciation of the expressive potential of language and the varieties of literature, students will develop a broader cultural literacy and an understanding of the changing definition and role of literature in society.

Therefore, by the conclusion of the course students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of the content of specific literary works and the structures and conventions of different literary genres.
2. Produce original, critical readings of literary texts, using different methods of interpretation and analysis, while identifying and interpreting formal and genre-related elements in the texts.
3. Critically assess the variety of roles that literature has played historically and continues to play in the human experience.
4. Draw connections between literary texts and their biographical, historical, and cultural contexts of authorship and reading.

REQUIRED MATERIALS

The following list of texts will have to be obtained by students:

Levi, Primo. Survival in Auschwitz.

Morrison, Toni. Sula.

Crucet Capo, Jennine How to Leave Hialeah

Satrapa, Marjane. Persepolis.

Shakespeare, William. Macbeth. (The Arden edition is required.)

Some required texts are made available through Course Reserves as indicated in the class schedule below.

Note: With the exception of Shakespeare, you may get any edition of these texts. But please be sure that they are not abridged

On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: 'On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”” The Honor Code (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions:

- a. Stealing, misquoting, insufficiently paraphrasing, or patch-writing.

 12. Policy on classroom behavior: Offensive remarks and behavior based on race, gender, ability, age or sexual identity, in written assignments or in class discussion will not be tolerated. In addition, please keep in mind that students come from diverse cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds. Many of the texts we will discuss and write about engage controversial topics and opinions. Diversified student backgrounds combined with provocative texts require that you demonstrate respect for ideas that may differ from your own. Disrespectful behavior will result in dismissal, and accordingly absence, from the class.
 13. Netiquette: You must turn cell phones to silent before coming to class. Cell phones may never be used in class. You may use laptops, e-readers, or tablets in class only to view texts under discussion. ASSIGNMENT DESCRIPTION

1. Participation and In-Class Discussion

Students are expected to read the assigned readings before class. Consistent participation in class discussions and demonstrated knowledge of the assigned readings will also contribute to this portion of the final grade. You should come to class each day with one typed question or observation to raise during class discussion and hand in at the end of class for credit. Note that the question and observation should be analytical and not merely factual; your question or observation should prompt discussion. Also be certain to bring your texts to class every day—either electronic copies, print-outs, or books – and paper and pen or pencil with which to write. Participation in reviews, workshops and class activities are included in this grade.

2. Brief responses of 300 words

Four times over the course of the semester students are required to write a brief (300 word) response to the day's reading. These responses must be uploaded to Canvas as Discussion Board Posts BEFORE class the day on which they are due. See Canvas for detailed instructions on the Brief Responses prompt on each text and note the due dates and times on the Discussion Board Posts.

These responses should raise either interpretive or critical questions and comments that are concerned with textual meaning. They comment on themes, figurative language and symbolism within the narrative. They also may make judgments regarding the period, history, politics and ethical questions that are relevant to the text. The open-endedness of interpretive and critical responses indicates that there may well be neither simply "right" nor simply "wrong" answers; the success of a response is based on the evidence and reasoning students employ to support their analysis and judgment. Students are also expected to comment on their peer's responses at least 5 times across the semester. These comments need to be perceptive or reflective, not merely factual observations.

3. Close Reading Assignment: 2-3 pages

This assignment will test student skills in close reading, especially as that skill pertains to works of poetry and short fiction. Students will be expected to analyze a text carefully and develop an argument regarding the whole of the text through a close reading. No outside sources may be used for this assignment. Consult detailed instructions on the Close Reading Assignment on Canvas.

4. Critical Analysis Paper: 3-4 pages

This assignment asks students to combine close reading skills with critical concepts or historical information introduced in class or supplemental readings. The goal is for students to produce a strong conceptual argument supported by textual and contextual evidence. See detailed instructions for the paper on Canvas.

5. Midterm Exam

This take-home exam will be distributed on-line (via Canvas). The exam will be comprised of matching and short and medium essay questions based on readings, lectures and discussion. Submitted exams will be assessed for evidence of collusion.
