Writing Childhood

To understand our attachment to the world, it is necessary to add a childhood, our childhood to each archetype. We cannot love water, fire, the tree without putting a love into them, a friendship which goes back to our childhood. We love them with childhood. . . . we love them in a new found childhood, in a childhood that is reanimated with that childhood which is latent in each of us.

Gaston Bachelard, The Poetics of Reverie

Course Objectives

Through a number of genres of writing for young people as well as through works intended for adults, this seminar will explore some of the ways that we write about childhood. In a sense, this creative process is an act of memory, of recovering those feelings and experiences -- real, imagined, archetypal -- that guide each of us in our construction and reconstructions of our own childhoods as well as in our larger, cultural understanding of childhood. These readings are meant to inspire your own journeys into that past that still lingers within each of us and that may find expression through narrative, poetry, drawing, music, autobiography, drama, film, photography, and other acts of the imagination. The focus of the seminar will be on the wide-ranging creative works that you will produce during the semester. Participants will need to bring to the course an open, creative spirit, an energized work ethic, and a commitment to producing exceptional writing.

Readings

In the interests of cost, many of the works that we will read in the course are available at local public and university libraries. I'd also urge you to shop around for used copies online. Feel free to share your books (and their costs) with others in the class.

Assignments

-- Over the course of the semester, create a book of your weekly writings of various lengths and forms. Along with the texts of these writings, you should feel free to add any images, drawings, or other visual material that serve to amplify your written. This is generally called an "artist's book."

These short weekly projects will include such project possibilities as:

A series of "snapshots"
A suite of poems
A map of a childhood space
A toy or stuffed animal
A group of photographs that tell a story
A short narrative
A comic/graphic story or picture book
A song, video, or animation

— Weekly readings, viewings, and discussion.
— A final, longer, creative term project.

Grading Policy

All writings are due in class on the day assigned. You have a 24-hour grace period to turn in these individual assignments if you miss that deadline.

Weekly writing assignments = 70 points
Final project = 25 points
Class participation = 5 points
TOTAL = 100 points

All your work should be typed, unless it is in graphic form. You should come prepared to read your weekly writings for the seminar and to discuss the reading and viewing assignments.

If you do all the assignments, make a good, sincere effort on each of them, actively participate in the class discussions, and are willing to grow creatively through this experience, you should do well in the course.

Grading Scale A = 94-100; A- = 90-93; B+ = 87-89; B = 84-86; B- = 80-83; C+ = 77-79; C = 74-76;
C- = 70- 73; D+ = 67-69; D = 64-66; D- = 60-63; E = 0-59

UF Grading Policies for Assigning Grade Points

<http://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>

Final Grade Appeals: If you want to appeal the final grade you receive for this course, you should contact Professor Kenneth Kidd, Associate Chair and Undergraduate Coordinator of the English Department. You will submit your course materials for evaluation by a committee assembled by Professor Kidd. The committee may decide to raise, lower, or leave unchanged your final grade for the course. Its decision is final.

Attendance Policy.

You may miss one weekly meeting, no questions asked. If you need to miss more than one weekly meeting, please let me know immediately, via phone or email, if there is an emergency, illness, or other circumstances that are keeping you from being in class so that we can make any necessary adjustments.

In the Classroom.

Classroom discussion should be civil and respectful to everyone and relevant to the day's topic. Some of the issues raised in the class may be controversial and have no easy solutions, and everyone is entitled to their opinion. While you may disagree with each other and (the instructor!), you should express your viewpoint in a polite and constructive manner. But any rude, coarse, or offensive remarks based upon race, gender, ability, or sexual identity, in written assignments or in class discussion will not be tolerated and will result in dismissal from class.

In the interests of protecting the privacy and academic and individual freedoms of everyone in the course, ours will be a cell-phone and computer/pad-free seminar. Please bring pen and paper for your notes. It is important that you are fully present in the class, without the distractions of multi-tasking. We will take regular breaks during our 3-hour seminar so that you will be able to catch up on your text and phone messages.

As you may have heard, there is a new state law concerning recording classes. (See UF's guide to course syllabi, section C.4 at the following link:

http://www.syllabus.ufl.edu/media/syllabusufledu/syllabi_policy_8_5_2021.pdf. The wording of this policy seems to apply to lecture courses, since any recording of class discussions would require the permission from other members of the class. These recordings are generally meant for personal use and cannot be "published" online or in other public forums.

If you have a disability that requires that you record the class, you should be in touch with the disabilities office, and they will provide you with a letter for me concerning the individual requirements you may need. Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center at: <https://disability.ufl.edu/get-started/>. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

Here is the latest advisory from the UF administration concerning Covid procedures and information:

All people inside of UF facilities are encouraged to wear masks in community spaces in buildings, including common areas in our office suites, when we are not in our individual offices or workspaces, even if you are vaccinated.

Instructors may recommend their students wear a mask, but they may not require nor ask a student to leave the classroom. Because it is a medical campus, UF Health does require masks while inside any area of its academic health center buildings across its Gainesville, Jacksonville, and Central Florida campuses and in its clinical facilities statewide. Appropriate mask use and voluntary vaccinations have allowed UF Health to create a safe workplace for over 10,000 faculty, staff, and trainees to work and learn in a high-risk COVID environment.

As in previous semesters, instructors may review through their course rosters on Canvas if a student has been withheld from campus by UF Health Screen, Test & Protect due to COVID-19 exposure, symptoms, or a positive test result. If an employee is withheld from campus, his or her supervisor will be notified.

Students who must miss class due to quarantine will be treated as though they are absent from class because of any other illness. The instructor and student should think of it as such and arrange for the student to make up classwork.

As a reminder, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, "vaccines in the U.S. UF will continue to promote vaccines and make them easily accessible for all members of the community. If you have not been vaccinated, we urge you to do so as soon as possible. A list of vaccination sites and their schedules is available at <https://coronavirus.uflhealth.org/vaccinations/vaccine-availability/>.

COVID-19 testing will also continue to be available, and a list of testing sites and schedules is available at <https://coronavirus.uflhealth.org/screen-test-protect-2/how/screen/#locations> and is strongly encouraged for anyone who is experiencing symptoms or is concerned about possible exposure.

Continue to regularly visit coronavirus.UFHealth.org and coronavirus.ufl.edu for up-to-date information about COVID-19 and vaccination.

Honesty and Definition of Plagiarism.

UF students are bound by The University of Florida Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: 'On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.'" The Honor Code (<https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/policies/student-honor-code-studentconduct-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Plagiarism can occur even without any malicious intent to deceive if you fail to understand and employ proper documentation techniques. When in doubt, ask for help!
