Course Description:

This course is an introduction to thinking and writing about the cinema by means of film theory and history. As an introduction to film analysis, ENG 2300 provides students with a working knowledge of film vocabulary (e.g., the distinction between a “long take” and a “long shot”). As opposed to the “film appreciation” model, this course develops these analytic tools in the context of film history and film theory. Having completed this course, students will have a sense of both film history’s general outline and some of film theory’s most important issues. However, the main purpose of this class is to develop a more engaged analysis of a given film’s style and structure, and how to write about that elegantly.

General Education Objectives:

- This course confers General Education credit for either Composition (C) or Humanities (H). This course also fulfills 6,000 of the university’s 24,000-word writing requirement (WR).
- Composition courses provide instruction in the methods and conventions of standard written English (grammar, punctuation, usage), as well as the techniques that produce effective texts. Composition courses are writing intensive. They require multiple drafts submitted to your instructor for feedback before final submission.
- Course content should include multiple forms of effective writing, different writing styles, approaches and formats, and methods to adapt writing to different audiences, purposes and contexts. Students should learn to organize complex arguments in writing using thesis statements, claims and evidence, and to analyze writing for errors in logic.
- The University Writing Requirement (WR) ensures students both maintain their fluency in writing and use writing as a tool to facilitate learning. To receive Writing Requirement credit, a student must receive a grade of C or higher and a satisfactory completion of the writing component of the course. This means that written assignments must meet minimum word requirements totaling 6000 words.

General Education Learning Outcomes:

At the end of this course, students will be expected to have achieved the following learning outcomes in content, communication and critical thinking:

- Content: Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, theories and methodologies used within the academic discipline.
- Communication: Students communicate knowledge, ideas and reasoning clearly and effectively in written and oral forms appropriate to the discipline. Students will participate in class discussions throughout the semester to reflect on assigned readings.

- Critical Thinking: Students analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline-specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems.

Late arrivals to class will count as half an absence. Absences will be excused only in accordance with UF policy. Acceptable reasons, such as illness and religious holidays, are detailed here: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/reulations/info/Attendance.aspx>. Should you miss a class, you are still responsible for all work covered in class, all announcements, and all changes to the syllabus made in class.

8. Grade Appeals. In 1000- and 2000-level courses, students may appeal a final grade by filling out a form available from Carla Blount, Program Assistant, in the Department office (4008 TUR). Grade appeals may result in a higher, unchanged, or lower final grade.

In addition, please keep in mind that students come from diverse cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds. Some of the texts we will discuss and write about may engage controversial topics and opinions. Diversified student backgrounds combined with provocative texts require that you demonstrate respect for ideas that may differ from your own. Disrespectful behavior will result in dismissal, and accordingly absence, from the class.
12. Cell Phone and Computer Policy: Students must turn cell phones to silent before coming to class. Cell phones may never be used in class. Each time a student's cell phone rings or each time that a student texts during class, 1% will be deducted from that student's final grade. Students may use laptops, e-readers, or tablets in class only to view texts under discussion. A student who surfs the internet or uses Facebook, etc. in class will lose 1% from the final grade for each occurrence. This policy includes all film screenings.
13. UF's policy on Harassment: UF provides an educational and working environment that is free from sex discrimination and sexual harassment for its students, staff, and faculty:

Assignment Descriptions:

Attendance and Participation: You are expected to read the assigned readings before class. Consistent participation in class discussions and demonstrated knowledge of the assigned readings will contribute to this portion of your final grade. Bring texts to class every day—electronic copies, print-outs, or books.

Reading Quizzes: I will periodically begin the day with an unannounced quiz to ensure that everyone did the reading. These quizzes are randomly distributed throughout the semester, so always be prepared!

Viewing Journal: after each film screening period, you will write a 300 word response to the film in which you can discuss your reactions, raise questions, or put forth an interpretive argument. Please note that these responses are not summaries of the film's plot. They are due before class Friday following a Thursday screening and will be uploaded to Canvas. If there is no class on Friday, they will be due before class the following Monday.

Essay 1: Sequence Analysis: this essay will test your ability to analyze a small filmic sequence from one of the films we viewed in class, paying particular attention to mise-en-scene, editing, and cinematography. A full assignment sheet will be available on Canvas.

Essay 2: Short Analysis: in this essay you will analyze a film in its entirety, paying particular attention to its overall narrative structure and how it achieves its effects through filmic language. It is not a plot summary: you will not be discussing what happens, but how it happens. A full assignment sheet will be available on Canvas.

Essay 3: Research Paper: this essay is a short researched argument about a film topic of your choice. You will make a single, focused argument backed up by research and your own close analysis of the film(s) you are writing about. I will ask you to submit a short proposal. A full assignment sheet will be available on Canvas.
