

Advance Registration for Fall 2025 Upper-Division Creative-Writing Courses: Manuscript Submission Deadline is March 11, 2025

Advance registration for Fall 2025 3000- and 4000-level CRW courses will proceed in two stages: departmental registration based on manuscript submission and subsequent open registration on ONE.UF for students who meet the official prerequisites.

Departmental Registration Based on Manuscript Submission

To be registered by the department for CRW 3110, 4905, or 4906, you must 1) meet the prerequisite (see below) and 2) submit a manuscript to the instructor. Each manuscript you submit for each course to which you apply must be accompanied by a Manuscript Cover Sheet, which is available on the English Department website.

The prerequisite for CRW 3110 is CRW 2100. In exceptional cases, students may apply to CRW 3110 with only CRW 1101 as a prerequisite. To register for CRW 4905 or 4906, students must have completed the 3000-level course in the same genre. Transfer students should consult the undergraduate coordinator to determine if courses taken elsewhere fulfill the prerequisite.

The upper-division CRW courses on offer in Fall 2025 are listed below, as are the names of the professors teaching them. Please look carefully at the course descriptions on the English department website. Depending on who is teaching, sections with the same course number may have different focuses. Course descriptions are now available.

For CRW 4906, submit four poems. For CRW 3110 or CRW 4905, submit one short story or an excerpt from a longer work (up to 20 pages). Submit your manuscripts via email, including your cover sheet as an attachment. If you are applying to a poetry workshop, put your name on each poem you submit.

You may take 3000- or 4000-level CRW courses up to three times each. You may also take 3000-level courses after taking 4000-level courses. You may not take more than six upper-division CRW courses during your time at UF or enroll simultaneously in two CRW courses in the same genre. You may take a fiction course and a poetry course in the same semester. You may also take courses from the same professor more than once, though not in the same semester.

FALL 2025 Creative-Writing Workshops

CRW 3110	R 9-11	Advanced Workshop in Fiction	Uwem Akpan (uwem.akpan@ufl.edu)
CRW 4905	T 9-11	Senior Advanced Workshop in Fictions	Uwem Akpan (uwem.akpan@ufl.edu)
CRW 4906	T 9-11	Senior Advanced Workshop in Poetry	Ange Mlinko (amlinko@ufl.edu)

It is possible that Professor Mlinko will also teach a section of CRW 3310 on M 9-11 in Fall 2025, but the English Department will probably not know whether this course will be offered until after advance registration for fall courses. We will update the English majors' listserv and the Creative Writing publist about the availability of the course. If we offer this course, there will be no manuscript submission process. Students who meet the prerequisite will be able to register themselves on ONE.UF.

Submissions must be received by the March 11 deadline. By Wednesday, March 26, John Murchek, the Undergraduate Academic Advisor, will register admitted students whose records are free of holds. He will notify both these students and those with holds that they have been admitted to the workshops. Students with holds will need to clear them before they can be registered. Creative-writing faculty members will contact students not added to class rosters in the manuscript submission and review process.

2. Open Registration on ONE.UF for Students Who Meet Prerequisites

If open seats remain in upper-division workshops after the department has registered those students selected for inclusion during the manuscript-review process, students may register for them on ONE.UF provided that they meet the prerequisites.

